An anatomical display in a museum or classroom. On the right is a full-body human skeleton. To its left is a panel with several labeled images of organs. An orange arrow points from the 'BRAIN' label to the skeleton's head. Another orange arrow points from the 'LEARN MORE' button to the skeleton's torso. A third orange arrow points from the 'LUNGS' label to the skeleton's chest. A fourth orange arrow points from the 'LIVER' label to the skeleton's abdominal area.
